AN ALPINE DAIRY.

We had counted largely upon milk for our food in this excursion, and we made our next halt at the but of a Sennerian who combines the entertainment of change travellers with her dairying industry. We took seats on a porch at the shady side of the house, and at a table where two cowherds aat facing each other, eating "Schmarn" and milk from the same earthern basin A similar basin of milk was set between us, and two iron spoons were furnished us. Preceding writers on Tyrolean travel had emphasized the badness of the food, and a thoughtful friend in New England had kindly urged on our acceptance a dyspeptic preparation of parched and sweetened wheat meal with which to supplement our insufficient provender. This had lain unused and unneeded in our sachel all the way from home. Its time had now come, and we soaked it, according to prescription, in our milk The cowherds, fi nishing their meal rose from the table, crossed themselves. stood facing the cast, and devoutly re peated a long prayer, with due genufiee tion and bowing of the head, and then trudged away to their work. The woman of the house showed us her simple summer dairy and her loom, in spected our novel outht, and sent us on our way rejoicing She could spare no hay for our horses, and we marched on to the hut of a bald and barefooted lit tle old man, who made us welsome, and stood in blue eyed wonder as we told hun we had come from beyond the great wa His loft not only fed our beast, it furnished Jane a fragrant rouch, where for two hours she slept away the weariness of her saddle, and awoke refreshed for her further ride

This was my first Alpine dairy, and a very good example at was of the sum mer home of the mountain cow tender with an open hearth in the smoky frontreom, and a comfortable looking bed in the milk room. The old man makes both butter and cheese from a herd of a dozen cows, and his employer sends regularly from Kastelruth to fetch the product to market. For five months he cows are kept here in the mountains and during the haymaking season the whole vast alp is gay with throngs of young men and women, with work and inusic and dancing. When we saw it the harvest was over, and only the cat th tenders were left. In another month it would be quite deserted, its great elevation—from 5000 to 7000 feet—subjecting it to carly killing frosts It is a compact rolling plateau of the richest grass land, varied by occasional woods, thirty six miles in cir cuit and belongs mainly to the neigh boring communes of Seiss and Kastel ruth -G E Waring, Jr., in Harper's Magazine for May.

It seems to me your loaves are not of the same woight," muttered a fault-finding housewife to a baker, as she pend a couple of loaves from his basket, "do you suppose you can cheat me?" "I don't want to cheat you," re plied the man of bread, not relishing such an insinuation, I know the loaves were weighed, every soul of them, and one weighs just as much as tother, by gracious and more too, I dare say, if the truth was known!"

Drilling her class in poetry, the teacher quoted from the familiar lines of Tennyson "You must wake and all me early, call me early, mother, dear' 'Now," she asked, "why did the girl want to be called carly?" "Don't know, replied Tommy, "unless it was because that was her name.'

Is is really affecting to witness the solistinds betrayed by the Democracy when General Grant's pessible candidacy next year is dicussed. They refer to his oft repeated declaration that he does not desire a renomination, that he longs for private life, and they say it is: almost cruel to drag him forward again to serve the necessities of a party. It is wrong they add, to subject him to the A SOUTH CAROLINA TORNADO. danger of a defeat, and thus tarnish his reputation in history. It is really too had, they say, to serve him thus, and they insist that he should be allowed to enjoy the case he has so honorably earned. They naturally feel sad about General Grant, for they know that if he is nominated next year the Demo-cratic candidate will be beaten so bally that when he wakes up the day after election, he will think he had been practiced on by a squadron of strong limbed mules, and then subjected to the gentle action of a threshing machine, as a light kind of tonic. The more cons that the sanitary condition of they see how the "Grant movement is Denumer is altogether what it should becoming" the more dejected they be-be." The Vicksburg Herald is another come. To be sure the Evening Post of about the same sort. Speaking of body but fossils and persons without the Chicago, Cincinnati and Columbus sense pay any attention to what that decaying semblance of a newspaper may have to say. It is very likely that | ber of removals were made to-day. the "Reformers" are as bitterly opposed to him as ever, but they have not so much to say about it as they used to. They see the country "rising to" the man who always had the courage of his yielding the floor, Mr. Morgan directed night. Accounts from the interior convictions, and they matetain a discreet silence. The reception to Governor Hoyt by the Union League Club of Philadelphia, last night, was productive of some results which must pain both Democrats and Reformers, when Grant's name was mentioned, he was cheered most enthusiastically. There were two busts of Grant in the hall, and these, says one of the reporters, "were the only representations of publie men there." General Grant would be forced to accept

Funeral flowers may again become prospect. The climax was teached at Stewart's funeral, where the outlay was 1$10,000. The market was cleared by the sudden demand, and the florists were delighted. The public, however, was to frighten him, as well as Judge his hand. He walked up to her and disgusted with the extreme to which action at once set in. At first it appeared in mortuary notices, where "the friends were affectionately desired to send no flowers." After awhile, however, the request was abridged into simply "no flowers," which is now a common feature in such notices. The loss to our florists by this change in fashion is estimated at $50,000 a year, but it probably exceeds that sum. As many of this class are poor, the change is reverely felt. The next capitalist borne to the grave was Commodore Vanderbilt, where the prohibition was made a prominent feature in the mortuary arrangements, and the railway men were thus saven a heavy tax. The death of James Brown of Brown Brothers, occurred soon afterward, on which occasion the floral prohibition was renewed, and it has occurred so frequently since then that it may now be considered established. This, as has been said, results from what is commonly termed "overdoing the matter," and the florists maconsider the great harvest afforded by the Stewart funeral a real misfortune. Such facts remind one of the arbitrary power of fashion, which is the greatest Albany Argus, Mr. Tilden's personal of all tyrants. Mme. Honaparte's Wit?

It was while residing in Vienna that she made the retort to the English Ambassador, at the Austrian Court, which was repeated all over Europe The story is that at a state dinner given by Prince Metternich it fell to the English Ambassador to escort Mme. Bonnparte. In the drawing room, pre-vious to the dinner they had conversed upon the character of Napoleon, whom the Englishman hated and Mme Bonaparte admired, and the Ambassador had suffered from her sarcasm At donner he thought he would get even with his opponent. So when the soup was over he asked her if she had read Mrs. Trollope's book on America. Mmc.

Bonaparte said she had.

"Well, madame," he asked, "did you notice that Mrs Trollope pronounces all Americans vulgarians?"

"Yes' replied Mme. Bonaparte, "and I am not surprised at that Were the Americans the descendants of the In dians or the Esquimaux I should be as tonished, but, being the direct descendants of the English, it is very natural that they should be vulgarians.

The Ambassador said nothing more. on this subject — Baltimore Gazette.
